

Empty Bottles To Be Coin-full Banks Campaign

Old 1.5 L Soda Bottles to the trash bin? Think again..

Clayhouse, the Youth Ministry of Novaliches Christian Fellowship, grabbed a Sunday afternoon to design old bottles to be used as banks for coins such as 5, 10 and 25 centavos. These coins may seem worthless in the eyes of many people. But by saving them in a collective effort, no one would say the result would be worthless.

Most especially if you would be using a bottle like what the Clayhouse designed last November 8, 2009. Armed with paint and brushes, they worked hand in hand and come up with their own designs. Everyone enjoyed the activity expressing themselves through and even learning more about the importance of Recycling. Other old materials like papers were used too.

This was done in support to the Lot and Building Fund Campaign of NCF. Hopefully, the designs would attract more members to do their own for old bottles and enjoin themselves in the campaign to raise money for the said project.
