

NCF Continues To Help

Almost two months ago, Ondoy (International Name: Typhoon Ketsana) hit and left our country devastated by floods due to heavy rains. Some people lost their loved ones, others their houses and properties they had worked hard for their entire lives. Until now, they are still having a hard time trying to recover from what happened.

Being aware of this, NCF continues to help and reach out to a number of families in the community. Last November 15, a team of Clayhouse Youth and Ladies revisited Forest Hills Subdivision, one of the most severely affected by Ondoy. In partnership with Hometown Missions led by Rev. Manolo Chata, a Christian para-church ministry based in California, they were able to minister to ten families with groceries and clothes as they grabbed the chance to let them know of God's love.

The recipients were so touched for the support they received. Hope and strength radiated from their faces once again through their smiles. The team, on the other hand, was also happy for the opportunity to bless them. "I wish we had more to give so we could minister to all of them," Sis. Divine Victorio said before the team headed back to church.

Truly the Lord is faithful, moving the hearts of our brothers and sisters in Christ to extend support to our countrymen.

Let us prayerfully hope that all the victims in this community and elsewhere will be able to rebuild their lives the soonest time possible, clearly seeing the love of God.
